

Opinion

Who Loves Ya' Harry

Harry Curtis is an outstanding member of our community. He stands out because he stands for Harry Curtis. Harry has been the President of the Garden Villa Association for as long as anyone can remember. Apparently he is so popular because he is the only candidate on the ballot and he also is the only one to cast a ballot for that post. In his last attempt to assume a more prominent role as a director of GRF, he was soundly defeated. This defeat came at the hands of a group of directors of the Mutuels, who like him, accept and admire everything that Professional Community Management does, or fails to do. Now, if even those who are on the same "side" as Harry refuse to vote for him, is it not in order to ask: WHO LOVES YA' HARRY?

Harry has appeared at open meetings to make his usual accusations, without any proof of what he says. Harry has written a letter to the editor of the Globe, which fittingly and revealingly was printed beside the letter from Milt Johns. Mr. Johns, like Harry, has little respect for the truth. Thus, Johns says "every spring for the past 15 years, or during the life of PCM's former incentive plan, PCM has reported to the Boards about the plan, as well as other employee compensation matters." If this is true, why do the former and present directors say that they knew nothing of the plan until late in 2006? Are these directors trying now to avoid responsibility for their inaction and failure to fulfill the fiduciary duty about which we hear so much from Mr. Johns? Or is Mr. Johns now employing a bit of guile, just as he did when the credit card scandal was discovered? The fitting expression for this situation is that Harry and Milt are on the same page, figuratively and physically. Harry closes his remarks with the plea: "If you are interested in keeping our community as we have known and loved it . . ." Harry, you are missing the point. The last election of directors of GRF and the elections in Third Mutual and United Mutual this year, leave no doubt that the residents of this community are tired of the management style of PCM and of those, who like you, wish to control the community and to promote your favorite projects.

By the way, Harry, how many manors do you own or control? The rumors in the community say you control 10 or more.

Contact;

Residents Voice

24100-D #296 El Toro Rd

Laguna Woods, CA 92637

(949) 683-7317

rvoice@rvoice.org