

companies that are involved with fraud or have questionable reputations.”

Would that apply to anyone we know? Would the MA and/or Boards be aware of such actions?

Let’s take a look at some history. How about “The Voice” October 2008 Volume 1 Issue 8. “KPMG In The News.”

<http://www.rvoice.org/RVoice/Documents/The%20Voice/Volume%201%20Issue%208%20October%202008/Vol%201%20Issue%208%20October%202008%202.pdf>

A jury found KPMG guilty in an accounting fraud trial brought by Cast Arts, Inc. The jury awarded Cast Arts a record $31.8 million in damages against KPMG.

Or, financial news posted March 31, 2008, “The KPMG engagement team acquiesced in New Century’s departures from prescribed accounting methodologies and often resisted or ignored valid recommendations from specialists within KPMG.”

And, a posting on March 31, 2008 reads, “Last week a 5 month independent investigation into the collapse of California subprime lender New Century Financial, alleges that the company’s ‘imprudent’ accounting practices were allowed by KPMG auditors.”

Residents Voice made the boards and PCM aware of these situation, plus numerous others associated with client lawsuits that were associated with incorrect tax evasion practices.

Coming closer to today, we have been informed that the company we sold our Broadband services to (Connexion) has gone bankrupt leaving us, “holding the bag.” For how much? We have yet to find out what the impact is and are relying on PCM and GRF to tell us. How could this happen? When researching this event on the internet, we find the words “alleged Fraud” coming to the surface.

In a Dow Jones article, the cause of the Connexion Bankruptcy was cited as.... A direct result of termination of their contract with DirecTV. The reason given by DirecTV for the termination was, “that DirecTV quit doing business with Connexion because it, ‘learned of alleged fraud committed by Connexion.’” Should we have seen this beforehand?

Do a little research on the Owner of Connexion, Glen Lang, and then decide if we should have gotten involved with Connexion.

Getting closer to home, we have a wealth of articles reflecting the quality of our Managing Company that came out of a lawsuit initiated by our ex-Managing Agent, Milton Johns, against his employer PCM. If you do nothing more you must read page 5 of the M. Johns “Cross Complaint” at :

<http://www.rvoice.org/RVoice/Documents/Third%20Law%20Suit/ROA%2069%20milt%20johns%20crosscomplaint.pdf>

I can’t imagine a business lawsuit that involves such things on a business trip as, propositioning “an individual to have sexual relations with him in his hotel room. This individual turned out to be an African-American transvestite...”

It should question the “character” of the management firm that we have had for almost 40 years. Would you allow any of your children to associate with such a “crowd?”

What are the Boards doing with their definition of oversight? Couldn’t they have found justification for questioning their choice of contractors? Or, have they even bothered to look and just relied on the fox to guard the henhouse?

When questioned as to why I have an interest in seeing the document that the IRS must provide to justify their change in our tax status, I can only say, “prove to use that nothing “WE (GRF)” did, warranted the change. Did we lose our tax status because it was incorrectly filed at conception? Did we file false tax information or, were our “shenanigans” with Connexion improper?

Mr. Storage, you were aware of Milt Johns public statements with reference to The Credit Cards that he specifically stated were for EMERGENCY USE ONLY and during a two year period you purchased lunch at “South of the Border” restaurant 91 times, using the EMERGENCY Credit Cards .

Pamela Grundke